Sawayanagi Memorial DEI Award

Public recruitment

In 1913, Tohoku University opened its doors to women ahead of the rest of the country under the philosophy of "open doors" set forth by its first president, Masataro Sawayanagi. The Sawayanagi Memorial DEI Award is named after the first president. The purpose of this award is to recognize and contribute to efforts aimed at promoting diversity, equity and inclusion (DEI), including the promotion of gender equity in academia and society, both inside and outside Tohoku University.

We look forward to receiving applications from everyone involved in DEI promotion.
